“ How does one begin to post a memory, how does one even start to tell when there are soooo many memories? The tale of a woman that has been with you all of her life and gave you life. She truly is one-of-a-kind. One of the most courageous loving, incredible, hard-headed, courageous, stubborn, loving woman I've ever known. She wanted to take home every little dog she ever met. And kiss and hug every little child that she ever saw. She taught me what the saying meant? When one is going through hell. You just keep going. , but tonight as we speak this woman, sits in heaven, She is with her Lord. She's with the rest of her family, that has gone on before her. As her Earthly family mourn her presence, her voice, we know in our hearts., that peace comes from heaven above.... What's lost here, heaven gained a new angel....may you continue to watch over us, You will be in my heart forever until I see you again. I love you so very much, Mama Betty.
