“ Brent,

I saw you most days at work and I saw you at 2:30 pm on this day. I did not know this would be my last talk with you or the last pic of your Emmy that you would show me.

I had told you my son had moved to Corsicana and you told me that if my son ever needed ANYTHING that he could call. Whether it is a loaf of bread or his car breaking down that he could call anyone in your family, they would be there no matter what time of day. You had so many talents and I know you will continue to use those talents in heaven.

Everyone keep asking, "Why does God take the good ones?" I have always said it is because God need good people in heaven. I spoke with Dewayne Chambers after this happened and he told me that he was told that God takes the ones that are READY. God leaves the bad ones on earth so that they will have more time to GET READY. No one had every explained it to me this way and that is my answer from now on.....Everyone that knows you knows that you were one of the good ones and you were READY. You will be missed and you will always be a HERO to me..... ♡ xoxo

“ *I did not know Brent personally but I shared two rare commonalities. We were both former Corsicana Police Officers and former Marines. Those two titles are widely known as having close bonds to their fellow L.E. Officer and Marine. I am truly saddened by the senseless lost of life. But I know he is a true hero that gave the ultimate sacrifice for his country and fellow officers. I salute his tribute and am truly saddened for his family's loss. I believe he is now standing tall in Heaven with his brethren L.E. Officers and Marines. Semper Fi and thank you for being one of the peacekeepers and a child of God!
I hope to meet you in heaven some day.*

“ Oh Brent, what can I say. You were a great officer, we talked so many times about how we could make things better, what we needed to make our job easier. Last time we really had a chance to talk for a while, I asked about that sparkle in your eye, you smiled so big and said-"my Emmy Lou, yes she's mine and I love her." Even though your time got cut short, I know you will always be with her and with us all. You have a ton of folks that love you and need you, so you have a huge guardian angel job, only a few thousand or so. I'm sure you will have no problem.
