“ Pat, Joyce, and all the family of Mrs. Warren, I am so sorry for your loss. Your Mother is now in Heaven. It is always sad to lose our loved ones, and I know how you feel. I lived near the family of Mrs. Warren back in the fifties. They are a wonderful family.

“ Joyce, Cindy, Marty, Scotty and Christy:

My thoughts and prayers are with each of you at this time. I remember all the fun we had going to visit your mother (grandmother) when we were growing up. She was always funny. Joyce you always looked so much like your mother so everytime you look in the mirror you will see her smiling face in your reflection. Mothers and grandmothers are very special people and they are the ones who are the glue that keep so many families together these days. I know there will be a huge void for your family with the passing of Mrs. Warren. I know when we lost my grandmother in 2003 it seemed to have knocked the wind out of our family and left us floating for a couple of years. But we are finally getting it back together and I know your family will as well.

May God give you strength and comfort in the days ahead. May you find some peace in knowing that she is now and forever surrounded, not only by God's everlasting love, but by all those she loved and lost in her lifetime.

Love,

Pam and family

“ My heart goes out to all of you. Circumstances with Scott keep me from coming. I truly want to be there! Clessie was such a special lady--and I was her favorite niece!. She was made of strong stuff and lived a long productive life. The Lord is ready for her, and she can be reunited with Daddy, Joe, and Andy.

“ Grandmother, I hope you're enjoying the wonderful new body that God has given you. I can only imagine the joy you are feeling right now to be sitting at Jesus' feet and seeing all your loved ones again.

My heart aches for my loss. We've shared so many wonderful times and you have enriched my life in more ways than I can count. My memories of you are precious. Tuna salad with apples, arranging your what-nots, bathing in an inch of water, driving 12 miles to make a U-turn because you didn't know how to back up the car, and always making sure we wore clean panties. Lady, you were my sweetheart. You gave me and Mom love when my father didn't want to have anything to do with us and I will never forget that.

Remember our promise to each other. Put in a good word with the Savior for me and help me explain when I do things I shouldn't. Save me a place and I'll see you when my time comes around. I'll be watching for you.

My love for you lives on.

“ Cathy and Family

My heart bleeds for you but rejoices for Mrs. Warren. She is a much better place and is now in the most loving arms you can imagine. Just think of the time she is having reminising with all those who have passed before her.

She is a shining new star in the nighttime sky, and a whole and beautiful angel in Heaven

*Love,
Glenda*
