“ Mrs. Callaway,

Howard's passing brings into sharp focus the agony and ecstasy of being a doctor. My spirit is deflated at his loss, but simultaneously I am inspired having witnessed such a heroic man and his compassionate steadfast wife. He was always so sick when I was with him that we never could enjoy the casual moments a doctor and patient can steal from a hectic day. Having served in the U. S. Navy I felt comradeship when viewing his picture wearing a Naval officer's "cover". I didn't know Eric is his grandson, but his passion for golf and grandchildren became personified when I read that in the paper. Meeting your two gracious daughters, both teachers, one married to my son's friend from school made me realize how much I would have enjoyed drinking coffee with him for a couple of hours. Our human immortality is measured in family and the lives of those whom we have touched. Howard Callaway was a good and honorable man. I am blessed to have known him.

“ Betty, Gail & Debbie,

Some of my warmest memories of youth are riding the school bus from Travis Elementary to Retreat to spend the night with Debbie. Betty would make us ice cream sundaes and your Dad would let us go out to his storage room and get a piece of candy! He was always so sweet to us, but then, we were perfect little girls! I'm so sad to hear that he is gone. As others have said, it brings our own mortality and our parents' into "sharp focus". Bless you all and take care of each other.
