

Jeremy Cumbie

May 16, 2007

Graveside service for Jeremy Cumbie will be held Saturday, May 19, 2007 at 2:00 p.m. at Pattison Cemetery in Emhouse with Bro. Bill Honea officiating.

Tribute Wall

“ Jeremy Cumbie

October 08, 2023 at 12:04 PM

“ I ain't worried, i'll see u again.

Josh Rodriguez - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

“ It's been a long road but a fun ride.

Lupe Longoria - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

“ Never wanted to sign this!

Adrian Llanes - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

LM

“ Jeremy was like a brother to me in every-way one could imagine. I remember the first time I met Jeremy was in junior high when he injured his foot and was on crutches, he was having trouble caring his books and I helped him get to his locker. After this we became the best of friends usually walking all over Palacios from store to store and to each others house. I still can recall the first apartment he lived in over the big bridge, and going over and meeting his mom, dad and his brother. Through the years we played football together and would walk to Shimik's and order a large pizza and devour the entire thing in seconds. One of the fondest memories I have of Jeremy is when we went to San Antonio on my 21st birthday. Me, Jeremy and my girlfriend now my wife Melissa, went to San Antonio to the riverwalk and spent the day there. Of course since me and Jeremy had just turned 21 we had to buy alcohol. We were at Hard Rock Cafe listening to some bands that were playing when this girl came over and asked Jeremy for a cigarette. Jeremy had just purchased a tin of cigs that were mixed imported tobacco and very expensive. After a long hesitation he handed one over and she left, a few minutes later she came back and wanted another one which she didn't get, she wasn't that pretty. I remember the hard times such as the death of his Dad and his Mother and trying to cope with all of this the best we could. For the life of me I cannot make sense of why this happens to such a good person and his family who were good people and I know would have given me all they had to help if I needed it, I would have done the same for all of them. With this being said back then we had nothing to give but love and one of the greatest friendships I have ever known. As far as figuring out why this happens to someone like Jeremy, I think the world is circling the drain and God needed a good strong Angel on his side so he took my best friend to help him bring the world out of the darkness.

We love you Jeremy and will always remember you

Leon and Melissa Marroquin

Leon Marroquin - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

LM

“ Jeremy was like a brother to me in every-way one could imagine. I remember the first time I met Jeremy was in junior high when he injured his foot and was on crutches, he was having trouble caring his books and I helped him get to his locker. After this we became the best of friends usually walking all over Palacios from store to store and to each others house. I still can recall the first apartment he lived in over the big bridge, and going over and meeting his mom, dad and his brother. Through the years we played football together and would walk to shimeks and order a large pizza and devour the entire thing in seconds. One of the fondest memories I have of Jeremy is when we went to San Antonio on my 21st birthday. Me, Jeremy and my girlfriend now my wife Melissa, went to San Antonio to the riverwalk and spent the day there. Of course since me and Jeremy had just turned 21 we had to buy alcohol. we were at hard rock cafe listening to some bands that were playing when this girl came over and asked Jeremy for a cigarette Jeremy had just purchased a tin of cigs that were mixed imported tobacco and very expensive. After a long hesitation he handed one over and she left, a few minutes later she came back and wanted another one which she didn't get, she wasn't that pretty. I remember the hard times such as the death of his Dad and his Mother and trying to cope with all of this the best we could. For the life of me I cannot make sense of why this happens to such a good person and his family who were good people and I know would have given me all they had to help if I needed it, I would have done the same for all of them. With this being said back then we had nothing to give but love and one of greatest friendships I have ever known. as far as figuring out why this happens to someone like Jeremy, I think the world is circling the drain and God needed a good strong Angel on his side so he took my best friend to help him bring the world out of the darkness.

We love you Jeremy and will always remember you

Leon and Melissa Marroquin

Leon Marroquin - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

KI

“ thanks for always being a good bud and i know u in a better place keep watchin' us and see u soon love always, bro Kirby peace out

Kirby - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

FS

“ i remember being a little girl and jeremy always being there and tryng to teach us to be a better person and him always being right about everything me and my cousin diana doing wrong wish i would have listen to him but since i didnt i learned though to appreciate the the things i could never have but what i do have i know that he is the one i have to thank for everything i do have. thank you for evrything even though i could never say that to you.

love always,
pancha

francis sanchez - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM

CG

“ I am so sorry I wasnt there at the end. You and Josh have always been in my thoughts. I would come and visit, yall moved, and I didnt know how to reach you. People said you were in Bay City then Port Lavaca maybe El Campo. I should of tried harder. I miss you and I am so sorry I was not around more. I loved Buddy, I loved Brenda, I loved you, and I love your brother. Were family then now and forever. You were my friend and I miss you.

Christina Porter Geist - May 16, 2007 at 12:00 AM