“ Spent at least one week with the Owens family in Purdon each summer until I was around 15 years old. Played jacks with Joyce when real young (she always beat me) graduated to monopoly after got older (she always beat me). I don't need a picture of the house there as its easy to think and see it as it was back then. It is still my favorite house from memories only as it had to be torn down. I have the posts from the front porch and was going to use them on a small dwelling built at lake. Too big so stored at brothers house.

“ She will missed by many. But She's looking down on everyone now specifically her family. Looking over them specially that great grand baby growing up. Its all she talked about up here every day. I would pull up a picture that Megan put on line and she would smile and almost cry.

“Joyce was so loved! She was the sweetest grandmother to her first grandson Ben and Stephen. She was the very best mother-mentor when Ben was a newborn. She was a wealth of practical knowledge to a young, inexperienced mom.

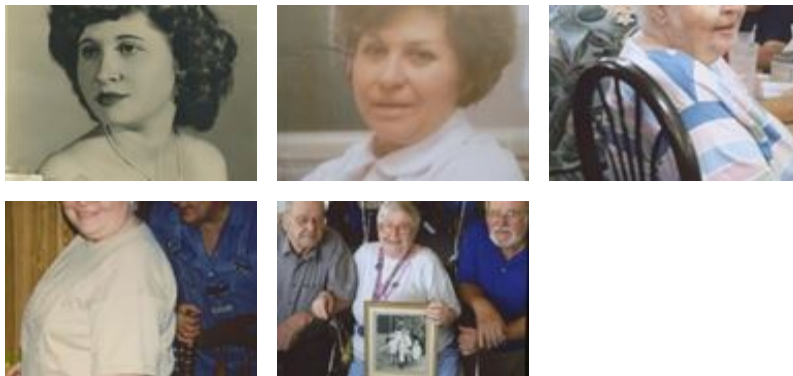

She loved Stephen Jr. when he came along, too... as well as all the other grand- and great-grand kids. There were many short visits in Corsicana - a 'pit stop' going to and from San Antonio over the last several years, and Friendship Towers was a landmark on the way. Joyce was a light along the path for many. Her humor and easy laughter made many friends.

She worked hard at the old hospital until she retired, and was proud of all the accomplishments of each of her children. She was a modern super mom. She was a good wife for gentle Bill, and they shared their later lives in harmony. She was a dependable, understanding daughter to both her parents their whole lives. Remembering her brings a tear of gratitude for a life so well loved.

“ She's looking down on everyone now laughing and trying to tell us in her own way it will be ok. She was a very Christian lady at Friendship Tower's. Greated all the new people with a smile and a good attitude.
