“ · Kim Barlow? Yes, I know her. Most picture the face 1st, as everyone does when asked if you know someone. I also like to picture the joy of their laugh.

· When you've looked into someones' face as the expression changes and that expression causes their eyes to light up with laughter, you've met them; that is them. The joy that comes from laughter seems to overshadow everything. (Remember that).

· To me that is the joy of the laugh. Those are the moments worth remembering... I like those moments. If you can say you have more than a handfull of those moments with any one individual, consider yourself blessed.

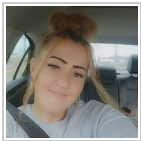

· Those are the moments I will remember most...

· My sincere condolences.
