Even in your troubled times, when we passed on the streets you were always positive and grateful for your blessings. I remember the sadness you felt and how you smiled the day we laid your Mother to rest, when I told you that on all her love and prayers for you, she expects to see you again one day. Who knew that day would come much to soon for us. As we travel this journey we all take different paths to reach our final resting place where "goodbye" is never spoken. Rest in peace my cousin.
