“ Goodmorning mh , it's your birthday! happy birthday my baby I love you so much. you deserved so much better, a lot of people are posting you today that don't deserve to celebrate you, but I know to keep it together and focus on this being your day. I miss you so much and can't wait to cross that stage for us both: cupid:.

“ It's currently Monday, May 12th, 2025, your anniversary is in a week, and I still haven't fully processed any of this, I'm so sorry. This month is the worst every single year the feeling never goes away or gets any better for me. I'm hoping that when I sit and talk to you, you're able to hear me I miss you the same as I did the morning, I heard you were gone. I hope you have some type of peace wherever you are, I'll never ever forget you.

“ I miss having our late-night conversations and staying up all night on a school, night then at school not even saying anything to each other because we were too shy to say anything. I wish I would've, but the phone calls and conversations make up for it, I miss you every day I hate this month so much it's really hitting me now knowing that you're actually gone Miguel.

“ This is exactly why I didn't want to get on here I knew I wouldn't stop I'm sorry Miguel :,) We all still remember and think about you baby. I can't believe it's been 4 years already... again I love you so much

“ I wish I would've come on here the exact day you passed but I couldn't. It seems like it's getting easier but it's not, only the ones close to me knew how much you meant to me and what it really was with me and you. You still mean the world to me Miguel, Sunday was a bad day at work, but I didn't let it be known, I talked to you as soon as I realized what day it was and before I went to bed. I hope you heard me Miguel, I love you so much. your journey may have ended but your spirit and love will continue to guide us all, your memory will always live with us. even though it's just your spiritual presence your love wisdom and light will continue to shine through everyone and the sky, we know you're always with us. we all love you Miguel, I just wish it wasn't this way we all do. rest in peace baby boy: heart:

“ I miss you so much every day I think of you every night before I go to sleep, I wish things could've been different and I'm sorry I didn't text you back that night , you're forever my baby boy and my best friend I love you so much Miguel I wish I could've changed things for you, you were the best person ever even if you didn't say much. I know from our conversations we use to have you cared for me and loved me as much as i loved and cared for you , it is may 23rd and basically on the way to junior year, I wish you could've still been by my side and everyone else's, I wish everyone could still enjoy having you around and still spending time with you in school, like I said even if you didn't say much :,) I will never forget you Miguel and your name will always live on as long as me and everyone else are around. I love and miss you so much I finally got the courage to do this Miguel, I know you're watching over us at this exact moment. everyone loves you Miguel and misses you so much, I promise no one has forgot about you baby, I love you so much.

“ I'm here again, words can't explain how much it hurts visiting this page every day just to read how much of a good person he truly was. I can't believe it's been so long and I'm trying so hard to stay focused on graduating and doing something with myself for both me and Miguel. I constantly think about the times we spent together and how I never was expecting them to come to an end so soon, and I hate knowing his life ended so soon without ever getting the chance to truly experience what life really is. I love you and I miss you dearly Miguel, hope heaven's treating you good my heart

“ Sweet, kind and so very well mannered was Miguel. I will always remember that glint in his eye when he smiled. He was a very quiet student so his facial expressions conveyed so much of his emotion. I am praying you can be comforted from family, friends and your faith. Please know many in our community have you in our thoughts and on our hearts.

“ I remember the day he came into to my room and asked if he could see his brother. I didn't know at that time that Misael was his sibling and I said who is your brother baby? And he said that one at the corner computer, I said oh wow that is your brother you look the same, he started laughing and he said yup that is my brother. He went to him and hugged him and told him something . His soul was pure, he was an amazing student always quiet but always made his friends laugh I will cherish your memory in my heart forever baby. Fly high to the sky! And be with our Lord. My prayers and condolences are with the family for his lost. God our father has gained an angel.
