“ I had the pleasure of getting to know Jerry for years through my job & was very fond of him, as I believe he was of me. After Jerry’s health began to fail & Sandy took over running the car lot, I was blessed to get to know Sandy.

She was always so much fun to spend time with, so interesting to talk to, & so free to share her experiences & wisdom with me. After I retired & Sandy had also retired, I lost touch with her & have not seen nor talked to her for years. But she & Jerry will always be a very fond memory from my working days. They were so much more than customers, they were FRIENDS. That was & is a blessing I will hold onto.

“ I had the pleasure of knowing Ruth since 2015. She has a heart of gold, while also having a tongue of steel when defending her opinions. That is exactly what made her so dear to me for the last 10 years. I love women who stand their ground and do not give up their souls just to be accepted by others. Amazingly we recognized we were both alike and had many great conversations about life and politics over the last 10 years. I learned a lot about her and her about me during those years. We both had a love for animals, and she did her part to help any stray dog needing a home. She even convinced me of the benefits of feeding wild cats on my carport who had no home. Now they check into my carport for a meal they can count on daily, and I have no rats or snakes around my mini farm. As for our political conversations: "Ruth and I could have ended wars and delivered peace around the world, but men were in charge and have no use for any female advise, while they kill each other over materials things that belong to God." RIP Ruth. You were a great friend. Vicky Prater

Sandy was my cousin, but she was also my friend. She lived in San Antonio, and I lived in Post Texas, but we met every summer in Corsicana for a week together when we were teenagers. Later we moved back to Corsicana and as luck would have it, we ended up living next door to each other. RIP Sandy. I love you and will miss you.
