“ Travis DeChaume was the next best thing I had to a dad and most of the time, I looked up to him with more respect than I ever have with my own dad. Long story.... We have not spoke in a long while, but he has always been there for my brothers and me during our ups and down. We love him and will miss for some time to come. I want to send hugs and encouragement to his family that were left behind. We all will see him again on the other side of heaven. He was and always will be an angel and saint.

Love you, Travis....

“ Uncle Travis is or was a great man, his house was always open to anyone that needed help as long as you were willing to help yourself. He was tough as nails but at the same time sweet as a teddy bear. I hope he did not suffer and he is in a better place. God Bless to everyone that his life touched in some way or another, he will be missed by all. I send my love and prayers.
